

I am shocked at the decision of Sinclair Broadcasting to pressure their stations to air the anti-Kerry "documentary" so close to the time of the election. This is a great example of the dangers of media consolidation. It is outrageous for one person or one company to have so much power to sway an election, especially under the guise of honest journalism.

Sinclair's actions show why we need to strengthen media ownership rules, not weaken them. They show why the license renewal process needs to involve more than a returned postcard. Thank you for your kind consideration of my very urgent concerns.
